

JUDGE ADMITS CONFESSIONS OF 'BLACK SOX' TRIO

$10,000 Paid for Stolen Waivers, State Hears.

Indictment of two more ball players and several gamblers in connection with the world's series scandal was produced by the state's attorney's office yesterday as the result of the decision of Judge Friend admitting the Jack-son-Cloette-Williams confessions into the Black Sox trial record.

San Johnson, president of the American league, who was responsible for the signing of "Bill" Burns, the state's star witness in the present trial, confirmed the report that two more players "were under fire. He declined to reveal their names.

The victory of the state in getting the confessions admitted followed a day of startling developments, during which charges were made that Arnold Rothstein, New York gambler, had paid $10,000 to an attorney of the state's attorney's office during the Hoynes administration for the original copies of the confessions of "Eddie" Cicotte, "Lefty" Williams, and Joe Jackson.

New Grand Jury Targets.

President Johnson, who made the charge against Rothstein, was emphatic in his opinion that the New York gambler should be one of the targets during the grand jury's second investigation. Assistant State's Attorney John F. Tyrrell said the new jury would pay particular attention to persons brought out during the present trial. Asked if Rothstein would be called as a witness, he returned an emphatic denial.

"None of those we expect to indict will be called as witnesses," he said.

State's Attorney Crowe, when informed of President Johnson's charges against Rothstein, said that he would order a grand jury investigation if sufficient evidence was presented. The confessions, along with the immunity waivers and other confidential records, were stolen in the spring of 1920. Mr. Johnson asserted that Rothstein had turned the papers over to the managing editor of a New York newspaper after he found he was not implicated in them.

Previous Investigation Failed.

A grand jury investigation begun a year ago after a New York syndicate had offered to sell the confessions to THE TRIBUNE was unsuccessful at that time. State's Attorney Crowe, however, says he is again willing to call a special grand jury if sufficient evidence is obtained as to who the guilty persons are.

Shortly after the records were first stolen they were offered to newspapers all over the country. At that time it was intimated that gamblers in New York had raised a fund of $20,000 to obtain them.

When the confessions were offered to THE TRIBUNE for sale the matter was referred to State's Attorney Crowe. He went before Judge McDonald, and after a short investigation advised THE TRIBUNE not to purchase them. He also published a warning to other newspapers against buying the documents.

Possibility that the state may close its case today, following the reading of the confessions to the jury, was indicated by Assistant State's Attorney Gorman last night. He said he was well satisfied with the way the case was going and believed it would not be necessary to call "Lefty" Maharg and Joe Jackson, two witnesses now held in readiness by the state.

Austrian to Be Called.

After the confessions are read Attorney Alfred S. Austrian will be called to explain his part in influencing the three Sox players to confess. It is possible one or two members of the baseball grand jury also may be called.

Judge McDonald took the witness stand after Cicotte, Williams and Jackson had testified at a bench hearing—while the jury was out of the room—told that if they "came through" they would be taken care of. They all admitted signing the waivers, but said they did not know their significance.

Judge McDonald declared that he promised any of them immunity. He said he had listened to their confessions, then told them that if they told their story to the grand jury they would have to take the consequences, that he could do nothing for them now and that they would be taken care of.

For Williams, who told him he only received a salary of $2,800, he expressed a degree of sympathy and said he told him that if he went through with his confession in the right way, it was

OLD SHOES, OFFERED AS PROFITEER ALIBI, WON'T GO TWICE

A year ago an investigator for the council high cost of living committee entered the soft drink parlor and fruit store at 101 East 11th place to investigate a complaint that the proprietor was profiteering.

"Business is bum," said James Lambos, the proprietor. "Look at these shoes. You can see I'm no profiteer."

Lambos displayed a pair of shoes through which his feet protruded. Yesterday Thomas Hoban, another investigator, entered the same store to verify a complaint that strangers entering the city through the Twelfth Street station are being charged 27 cents for a sundae made with the "smallest ice cream dipper manufactured."

"No chance of profiteering here. Business is rotten. Look at these shoes," said P. Ligrits, the new proprietor. "Those shoes got this place by me once, but they will not work twice."

At that time he demanded $10,000 cash. When he returned home, he said, the money was under his pillow. There were two or three $1,000 bills and the rest smaller.

His Consensus Hurt.

He started the first game, he told me, with the intention of walking the first man. Instead he hit him with a pitched ball. After that, he said, his conscience hurt him and he realized that he was doing wrong. He regretted his action but did not return the money.

Q—Was anything said about immunity? A—He said at first did not want to go before the jury without a promise of immunity, but I told him that I could do nothing for him. I told I could make no bargain with him. Then he asked if he could go before the jurors without his teammates knowing. I took him in the rear way. We met George Wright, a reporter, on the way and he flashed the story to the newspapers.

Q—Did you have a talk with Joe Jackson? A—Yes, he called me up after Cicotte talked to the jury and said he wasn't implicated. I told him to tell that story to the jury when his case came up for trial. Fifteen minutes later he called up and said he wished to tell all.

Jackson Tells His Price.

Q—Tell us what he said? A—He said he was approached by one man at the Ansonia hotel. He was offered $5,000. He refused, so he told me, because he said that wasn't enough to influence a laborer to do a "dirty deal."

He said he priced his cooperation at $20,000. He finally came to an agreement with the fixers that he was to get $5,000 after each game.

Q—Did he get it? A—He said that it was not until after the fourth game that he got anything at all. Then a man came in and tossed $5,000 on the

with the statements of Cicotte, Williams, and Jackson. Jackson's quaint dialect and humorous answers made it an entertaining morning for the spectators. Attorney Short cross-examined Cicotte first.

Q—Was any promise of immunity made to you? A—They said they would take care of me. Attorneys Replegle and Austrian were in the room. They told me they had the goods on me and that I would have to come clean. Mr. Austrian said: "This is going to be a long trial, Cicotte. You don't want your wife and babes up here for a long time. If you tell us the truth we'll save you from the penitentiary."

Jackson's testimony dealt with various conversations he said he had with Judge McDonald and Attorneys Austrian and Replegle.

Q—Did they say anything to you about immunity? A—They told me I could tell my story and then go anywhere I liked. Judge McDonald suggested the Portuguese islands.

Q—Did you talk to Judge McDonald the next morning after you talked to said Russell J. Poole, executive secretary of the committee. "I've summoned Ligrits to appear today, and if complaints against him are verified I will ask the mayor to revoke his license."

Ready to Sign Anything.

Q—Did Mr. Replegle tell you that you would have to sign an immunity waiver and that you would later be held responsible criminally for what you told the jurors? A—He read a lot of stuff from a paper to me. I don't know what it was. He said it was a waiver or something.

Q—Didn't you read what you signed? A—No; they had given me their promise. I'd signed my death warrant if they had said me to.

Q—Did Judge McDonald give you any promise? A—He told me that if I talked I wouldn't be indicted, I wouldn't have to go to jail, put up bonds or do anything. All they wanted, they said, was my address.

Q—Did you leave town immediately after you were through at the state's attorney's office? A—No, I got tied up again.

YANKEE VALUE UPON IMPORTS IS CALLED PUZZLE

One Tariff Expert in Doubt, Another for It.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., July 25.—[Special.]—Thomas Walker Page, chairman of the tariff committee, told the senate finance committee today the American valuation plan in the Ford-hay tariff bill will cause confusion in the customs laws, will make foreign business highly speculative, and add another element of uncertainty to a business situation already chaotic. Mr. Page said, however, the new system of valuation ultimately can be administered successfully.

Calls Effects Uncertain.

Mr. Page told the committee a decision on the matter should be reached by balancing one chief argument for the American valuation plan against one chief argument on the other side. The chief argument against the plan, he said, was the difficulty of enforcement and the general uncertainty as to the exact effect.

The chief argument for the plan, he said, was the fact that it would make possible equal duties on similar commodities coming from countries where the rate of exchange in relation to American currency differs.

He admitted that the American valuation plan would not entirely correct the exchange situation, but said it temporarily would provide relief.

Upholds Yankee Valuation.

William Burgess, another member of the tariff committee, strongly favored the American valuation plan. He insisted the proportion of imported goods undervalued is very large. By adopting the American valuation, he said, the full amount of duty intended can be collected by the government.

He said it was natural importing interests should oppose the American valuation plan, as some of their goods might be assessed at a higher rate.

Senator Simmons, Democrat, asked Mr. Page whether the duty would not be pyramided, meaning that when a new article is brought in the American value would be fixed at the imported cost, and when the second shipment is made the American value would be boosted to the level of the original value plus the second duty.

Depends on Competition.

"That depends upon whether domestic competition is sufficient to keep prices down," Mr. Page replied.

"The determination of the expediency lies in balancing one argument against another great argument," Mr. Page said. "A great argument in its favor is that foreign exchanges vary greatly with respect to different countries."

"The chief argument against American valuation is the difficulty of enforcement. It is an almost untold method of assessment."

"We can make the American valuation work in the United States if you give us time."

'OUST OLD FOGIES, BUILD REAL NAVY AND AIR DEFENSE'

Senator King's Bill Is Echo of Bombing.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., July 25.—[Special.]—The first congressional echoes of the aerial bomb which sank the German dreadnaught Oostfriesland last week resounded in the senate today.

Senator King, Utah, introduced a bill to revise the present building program. In a brief speech he called upon Secretary Denby to favor the navy of "old fogies, give it a thorough shaking up, and place men in charge of construction who would promptly heed the lessons of the recent bombing experiments."

A Threefold Purpose.

Senator King's bill has a threefold purpose. First, it provides for the suspension of building on six of the battleships now under way in the 1916 program.

Second, it orders the navy department to convert at least two of the six 43,000 ton battle cruisers into modern airplane carriers.

Third, it directs the navy department to enter into contracts at once for four new fleet submarines to eliminate the navy's alleged unpreparedness under seas.

"The experiments demonstrate conclusively," the senator said, "that too much importance has been attached to the capital ship and too little to aircraft and submarines. Some of the new battleships will be obsolete by the time they are completed."

Submarines Called Failure.

"Our submarines are largely a failure. We have only one fit to go to sea with the fleet."

Senator Gerry, Rhode Island, Democrat, an active member of the naval affairs committee, objected to that portion of the bill which ordered the conversion of two battle cruisers into airplane carriers. He favored the immediate construction of two airplane carriers, he said.

The Japanese program, to be completed in 1927, will give the Japanese twelve battle cruisers to America's six, he pointed out. He also stated that Great Britain was going ahead with battle cruisers.

Senator King, however, declared he did not agree with the Rhode Island senator as to the value of the battle cruiser.

Bill to Naval Committee.

The bill was referred to the naval affairs committee.

Secretary Denby stated, in reply to an inquiry today, that he will soon renew his recommendation to congress for an appropriation for two airplane carriers at about $30,000,000 each, including armament.

GERMANY URGES WASHINGTON TO PROCLAIM PEACE

Dresel - Rosen Parley Is Concluded.

BY GEORGE SELDES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

BERLIN, July 25.—The German government has agreed that President Harding issue an official proclamation of peace between the United States and Germany, thereby ending the present indefinite situation.

It is learned from most reliable sources that the pourparlers between the American commissioner, Loring Dresel, and the German foreign minister, Dr. Rosen, have now ended, all the American's questions having been answered, the chief of which concerned Germany's view of what legal action would be necessary to make the Porter-Knox resolution effective.

Germany replied that a presidential proclamation would be the most acceptable immediate action, under which it could be possible for ambassadors to be named and formation of a peace treaty begun.

Germany is said to have been asked to give certain answers regarding the form and contents of such a presidential proclamation which have been sent to Washington.

However, the authorities deny that these German views have anything to do with the clauses of the future peace treaty.

It is known that Chancellor Wirth is willing to go more than half way in establishing a real peace, and in official circles the opinion prevails that the American treaty probably will repeat a majority of the Versailles treaty provisions.

WASHINGTON NEWS

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 25.

In spite of pressure being exerted by a most formidable and insidious lobby, Henry Ford's proposal to lease and purchase the government's $100,000,000 dam and war plants at Muscle Shoals, Ala., will not be accepted on terms submitted. Secretary of War Weeks said today that there are several things wrong with the proposal and besides he has heard that another corporation is about to make an offer to take over the plants.

The administration expects a reply from Japan within a few days agreeing to participate in the forthcoming conference on Pacific and far east issues.

Senator King of Utah introduced a bill today, based on the recent bombing tests of the Virginia capes, directing that construction on six battleships be stopped, that two cruisers be converted into airplane carriers, and that four feet submarines be built.

Surgeon General Cummings of the public health service, testifying today before the soldiers' relief investigating committee, threw responsibility for government neglect of the disabled soldiers back to the Wilson administration, which he said had never begun to realize the magnitude of the problem to be faced by the government.

U. S. MAY REJECT FORD'S GIGANTIC SHOALS LOBBY

Amazing Expose of Fight to Put Deal Across.

administration's approval of the Ford proposal and to put the requisite legislation through congress is a marvel in its scope, plan, and direction.

The directing genius of the widely ramifying aggregation of interests brought together for this purpose is J. W. Worthington, chairman of the executive committee of the Tennessee River Improvement association, a familiar figure about congress for fifteen years, promoting bills for government appropriations for the development of Muscle Shoals.

One of the most interesting revelations emanating from Mr. Worthington himself is that Mr. Ford's proposal is the joint product of Mr. Ford, his engineer, and this promoter, whose Muscle Shoals bills have been rejected by congress repeatedly as the result of arguments that they represented attempted raids on the public treasury, policies inimical to the public interest, and schemes to fatten special privilege at public expense.

Chattanooga Man Busy

The most important immediate undertaking of the lobby was to procure favorable consideration of the Ford proposal by the administration. This task was committed to Claudius H. Huston of Chattanooga, Tenn., assistant secretary of commerce, who was strongly boosted last winter for membership of the president's cabinet. Until he came to Washington to be Secretary Hoover's right hand man, Mr. Huston was president of the Tennessee River Improvement association.

The close relationship of Mr. Huston and the master mind of the gigantic lobby is indicated by the fact that while the assistant secretary of commerce gives his home address in the congressional directory as the New Willard hotel, he actually has lived since coming to Washington with Mr. Worthington at the Washington headquarters of the improvement association. There Mr. Worthington, one learns from his letters, ministered to the comfort of Assistant Secretary Huston as solicitously as to the most cherished guest.

First Look at Report

According to Worthington's instructions Mr. Huston was to cause Gen. Beach, chief of engineers, to withhold from Secretary Weeks his recommendations concerning the disposition of the Muscle Shoals plants until the Beach report could be examined by the head lobbyist, with a view to shaping the report to harmonize with the Ford proposal.

As a result of this scheme of management, the Ford proposal, although addressed to the war department, which has sole jurisdiction, was submitted first to Secretary Hoover, who had been advised of the proceedings by Mr. Huston. Mr. Hoover then transmitted the tender to Secretary Weeks and made a public statement summarizing the offer and praising it.

Secretary of Treasury Mellon, because of his great influence with the president, occasioned Mr. Worthington thoughtful concern. An indication of the head lobbyist's conception of the character of the secretary of the treasury is afforded by a letter, in which Worthington cautions his correspondent that Mr. Mellon, who is reputed to control the Aluminum Company of America, known as the "aluminum trust," should be kept in ignorance of the fact that Mr. Ford intends to manufacture aluminum in one of the nitrate plants purchased from the government. Worthington feared that Mr. Mellon, if apprised of this fact, would block the Ford deal.

They're Using All Agencies. The undertaking of putting through congress the legislation to turn the Muscle Shoals properties over to Mr. Ford on terms involving the additional expenditure of large amounts of public funds, Mr. Worthington committed to the farm organizations, in particular the American Farm Bureau federation, which have been led to believe that Mr. Ford would cheapen the cost of fertilizer if permitted to operate these plants.

In view of the ascendancy of the agrarian bloc in this congress and of the close working relations between the bloc and the farm organizations, the appearance of the latter institutions in the ranks of the Muscle Shoals lobby is a development fraught with extraordinary significance. It is a foregone conclusion that Mr. Worthington, surveying the demonstrated power of the organized agricultural interests in congress, believed he had found, after fifteen years of patient but fruitless endeavor, the magic charm guaranteed to soften the hearts of the lawmakers. That the administration, in considering the Ford offer, is not unmindful of the potent influence of the farm organization is admitted by a member of the cabinet.

Chicagoans Are Drawn In. To create a favorable reception of the Ford proposal by the business men of the country, and to impress the President, the Mississippi Valley association, of which Senator McKinley, Illinois, is president, was drawn into the lobby.

At the expense of the Tennessee River Improvement association, a committee of the Mississippi Valley association was piloted to Muscle Shoals and afterward made a report on the project which was prepared and is being circulated also at the expense of the lobby in behalf of the Ford scheme. Senator McKinley said today he has never seen a copy of this report and did not know the Muscle Shoals lobby had paid the expenses.

A committee of officers of the Mississippi Valley association, however, accompanied to the White House by Senator McKinley, did call on President Harding last week and urged favorable consideration of the Ford proposal—or any better proposal by private capital.

6. At the beginning of the fourth year of the lease period, and annually thereafter, the company will pay to the United States a sum not greater than $7,010, to retire during the remaining period of ninety-seven years the total cost of dam No. 3 and its power house, substructures, superstructures, machinery, and appliances, including lock, all taken at $8,000,000; the sinking fund investments to bear the highest rate of interest obtainable but not less than 4 per cent per annum.

7. The company will further agree to pay to the United States $20,000 annually for repairs, maintenance, and operation of dam, gates, and lock at dam No. 3; all repairs, maintenance, and operation of the same to be under the direction, care, and responsibility of the chief engineer of the United States during the 100 year period.

8. The company will furnish the United States, free of charge, at dam No. 3, to be delivered at a point on the lock grounds designated by the chief of engineers, electric power not in excess of 100 h.p. for the operation of the locks.

9. If the United States shall accept the above several proposals in their entirety, then the company offers to purchase from the United States the following properties, viz:

[a] All of the property at nitrate plant No. 2 and its adjacent stream power plant, land, buildings, material, machinery, fixtures, equipment, apparatus, and appliances, tools, supplies, and the right, license, and privilege to use any and all of the patents, processes, methods, and designs which have been acquired by the United States [and which the United States has a right to transfer and assign the use of to any purchaser of nitrate plant No. 2], together with the sulphuric acid units now in storage on the premises.

[b] All of the properties of the United States at nitrate plant No. 1, its steam power plant, land, buildings, material, machinery, fixtures, equipment, apparatus, and appliances, tools, supplies, and the right, license, and privilege to use any and all of the patents, processes, methods, and designs which have been acquired by the United States; and nitrate plant No. 1 shall not be operated as an air nitrogen fixation plant as designed to be.

10. To determine by research on a commercial scale whether by means of electric furnace methods and industrial chemistry, there may be produced fertilizer compounds of higher grade and a cheaper price than the fertilizer using farmers have in the past been able to procure, and to determine whether in a broad way the application of electricity and industrial chemistry may do for the agricultural industry of the country what they have economically accomplished for other industries.

11. To maintain nitrate plant No. 2 in a state of readiness to be promptly operated in the manufacture of materials necessary in time of war for the production of explosives.

12. If the above offers of the company are accepted by the United States, and if the agreement between the secretary of war and the company can be made for the purchase of the above described properties, it will naturally and reasonably follow that the buyers of fertilizers will desire to be assured that fertilizers produced at nitrate plant No. 2 shall be sold at fair prices and without excessive profits.

13. To meet this reasonable expectation on the part of the farmers of the country who buy fertilizer, the company proposes that the maximum net profit which it shall make in the manufacture and sale of fertilizer products at nitrate plant No. 2 shall not exceed 8 per cent. The company also suggests that a board be created composed of officials designated members and representatives of farmers' national organizations, such as the American Farm Bureau federation, the National Grange, and the Farmers' union, together with a representative from the bureau of markets of the agricultural department [to be an ex-officio member of this board, serving in an advisory capacity, without right to vote] and two representatives of the company.

14. Whenever, in the event of war, the United States shall require any part of the operating facilities of nitrate plant No. 2, for the production of materials necessary in the manufacture of explosives, then the United States shall have the immediate right, upon notice to the company, to take over and operate the same for the national defense of the country, and the company will supply the United States with hydro-electric power necessary for such operations, together with the use of all patented processes which the United States may need in time of war for munition purposes, and which the company owns and has the right to use, and any of the company's personnel and operating organization, required in times of war for operating any part of nitrate plant No. 2, in the manufacture of materials for explosives shall be at the disposal of the United States. Respectfully,

Two hundred thousand dollars one year from the date, when 100,000 horse power is generated and continuously ready for service, and thereafter $200,000 annually at the end of each year for five years. After the first six years payment of $1,200,000 shall be made annually, at the end of each calendar year, during the lease period.

4. If the United States shall accept the above proposal for leasing the Wilson dam and its power, the company will pay to the United States $5 per cent on the remaining cost of the dam, the dam, and powerhouse facilities, taken at a cost of $8,000,000, in payments of $400,000 annually, except that during the first three years of the lease period payments shall begin and be made annually as follows: $160,000 one year from the date when 80,000 h.p. is generated and continuously ready for service, and thereafter $160,000 annually at the end of each year for two years. If, and when, after the first three years, the entire power house generating equipment of 250,000 h.p. is continuously ready for service, payments of $400,000 shall be made annually at the end of each calendar year during the remaining ninety-seven years of the lease period.

5. When the lock, dam, and power house installations at dam No. 3 are completed the company offers to lease dam No. 3, its power house and all of its hydro-electric and operating apparatus, for a period of 100 years from the date of the completion of the dam and its power house facilities, and the company will pay to the United States 5 per cent on the cost of the dam, the dam, and powerhouse facilities, taken at a cost of $8,000,000, in payments of $400,000 annually, except that during the first three years of the lease period payments shall begin and be made annually as follows: $160,000 one year from the date when 80,000 h.p. is generated and continuously ready for service, and thereafter $160,000 annually at the end of each year for two years. If, and when, after the first three years, the entire power house generating equipment of 250,000 h.p. is continuously ready for service, payments of $400,000 shall be made annually at the end of each calendar year during the remaining ninety-seven years of the lease period.

6. At the beginning of the fourth year of the lease period, and annually thereafter, the company will pay to the United States a sum not greater than $7,010, to retire during the remaining period of ninety-seven years the total cost of dam No. 3 and its power house, substructures, superstructures, machinery, and appliances, including lock, all taken at $8,000,000; the sinking fund investments to bear the highest rate of interest obtainable but not less than 4 per cent per annum.

7. The company will further agree to pay to the United States $20,000 annually for repairs, maintenance, and operation of dam, gates, and lock at dam No. 3; all repairs, maintenance, and operation of the same to be under the direction, care, and responsibility of the chief engineer of the United States during the 100 year period.

8. The company will furnish the United States, free of charge, at dam No. 3, to be delivered at a point on the lock grounds designated by the chief of engineers, electric power not in excess of 100 h.p. for the operation of the locks.

BERLIN CABINET INDORSES STERN NOTE TO FRANCE

Allies Are Still at Odds
Over Silesia.

BY GEORGE SELDES.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright, 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.)
BERLIN, July 25.—From high diplomatic sources it is declared that the cabinet of the German government today unanimously decided to stand by Foreign Minister Rosen's drastic note to France, in which Germany practically refused to provide free transportation for a French division across Germany into Upper Silesia, unless the British and Italians seconded the French request.

The cabinet held that the decision was in accordance with Germany's rights under the peace treaty wherein the entente may obtain permission to cross Germany, as in the case of the British Silesian reinforcements, but under which no single nation may force passage without violation of sovereignty.

Expect British Support.
Parliamentary circles believe the cabinet's decision is clear indication that Great Britain is supporting Germany's stand against France. It is believed that the strained relations which have developed in Franco-British dealings within the last fortnight have resulted in the British ambassador, Lord Dabernon, indicating that whatever action Germany took to safeguard its borders against further penetrations by French troops would be supported by the British policy.

Draft in Some Quarters.
The fullest reliance is placed on Lord Dabernon, but considerable doubt is expressed whether the frequent British differences with France and Prime Minister Lloyd George's frequent changes of front warrant the German government in going very far in its extraordinary opposition to France's demands with hope of British support.

ALLIED POLICIES DIFFER

LONDON, July 25.—Matters have come to a showdown between Great Britain and France over the French policy in Upper Silesia, and it is expected there will be a clear understanding of the position of both countries within a few days.

The British foreign office received a note from France today declaring its willingness to hold a meeting of the supreme council on Aug. 4 on two conditions—first, that a commission of experts meet this week to decide on the limitation of the front, and second, that the British consent to the sending of an additional division of troops to Upper Silesia and assist in securing Germany's consent to allowing these troops to pass through Germany.

Britain Outlines Stand.
A special meeting of the cabinet was called immediately and it was decided that the time had come when it was necessary to take a firm stand in regard to French pretensions as to the hegemony of the continent. It was decided to reply that Great Britain does not consider it necessary to send troops to Upper Silesia if the supreme council meets on Aug. 4, and to point out to the French that for the British to demand from Germany permission to send troops to Upper Silesia without such agreement by the supreme council would be an infraction of the treaty of Versailles.

Germany Asks Advice.
Germany has asked the British for advice about the French demand to allow the passage of troops, but the British decided not to reply, leaving the Germans to settle for themselves their course of action.

British diplomatic officials believe this frank reply to the French demands will clear the air and that a meeting of the supreme council will be held at which a definite understanding will be reached.

It's Easy Now to Curl Hair to Stay Curled
To curl the hair to stay curled, nothing is so simple as the Silmerine method. A little liquid Silmerine is applied to the hair, the hair is then dried in a clean, warm, dry place. The result will be in evidence in three days, and this will be a long time, regardless of temperature or humidity. This hairless method is not to be compared with curling by means of a hot iron, because, instead of injuring the hair, it is really beneficial. A few drops of Silmerine applied to the hair will keep it from becoming dry and brittle. The hair will look perfectly "natural," and the hair will be beautifully styled without the least tressiness or stickiness.

IRELAND AT TRUCE WANTS PEACE

This picture illustrates the first day of the truce in Ireland. Note the auxiliaries hobnobbing with the crowd and being unarmed for the first time in years. WALSHES MUM ON 'DE LUXE' PART OF BIG BOOZE RING

Woman Witness Bares Threat to Kill.

Numerous wealthy members of the Chicago Athletic club, who have been "trembling in their boots" in fear of possible indictments in connection with a "de luxe liquor ring" as the result of confessions by Mr. and Mrs. James W. Walsh, now held under bonds in Detroit, can rest easily.

Walsh, in his statements to the police, hasn't as yet named them directly. It was learned yesterday, officials say, that much pressure has been exerted in certain circles toward the intimidation of witnesses in the case who have given the government information.

Bares Threat by Husband.
Among these witnesses is Mrs. E. J. McGrath of 291 Edmond place, Detroit, whose husband, it is charged, was the chauffeur who drove various consignments of liquor to the homes of the Chicago purchasers.

Walsh at that time was living in the home of Municipal Judge Gemmill at 5406 Ellis avenue, which he held under lease, and which was raided last February. In a statement made last night in Detroit to Federal Agent Patrick Roche, Mrs. McGrath declared her husband had threatened her life if she made further disclosures to the government officials.

Woman Tells of Raid.
Regarding the raid on Judge Gemmill's home, in which several barrels of whiskey were opened and the contents allowed to flood the basement floor, Mrs. McGrath had much to say. This part of her statement follows:

"At supper in the Walsh home at 5406 Ellis avenue that night there were present Mr. and Mrs. Walsh, the maid, the child and Harry Lemack. A man appeared at the door whom I later learned was Miles Canavan. Accompanying him were several other men. Canavan said he was a government man and that a truckload of whiskey was standing outside."

"While they were talking several plain clothes men came to the door and showed their badges. Canavan and the officers then went to the truckload of whiskey. Mr. and Mrs. Walsh drove away in their car."

Maid Smashes Casks.
"The plain clothes men then returned, broke into the place and arrested me. While the police were there the maid went down to the basement and smashed the whiskey. She told me later she had received a telephone call from Walsh directing her to do this."

The Right Honourable David Lloyd George,

LONDON.

Sir:—

The desire you express on the part of the British Government to end the centuries of conflict between the peoples of these two islands, and to establish relations of neighbourly harmony, is the genuine desire of the people of Ireland.

I have consulted with my colleagues, and secured the views of representatives of the minority of our nation in regard to the invitation you have sent me. In reply, I desire to say that I am ready to meet and discuss with you on what basis such a conference as that proposed can reasonably hope to achieve the object desired.

I am, Sir,
Faithfully yours,
Eamonn de Valera.

This is a facsimile of the letter which Eamonn de Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," wrote to Prime Minister Lloyd George accepting the invitation of the British prime minister to a conference. This letter led to the truce and is expected to result in peace in Ireland.

HUGHES NOTE TO TOKIO SMOOTHS ROAD FOR JAPS

Nippon to Have Equal Say on Agenda.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., July 25.—[Special.]—The Harding administration believes that the way has now been paved for mutual understanding among all the powers invited to participate in the forthcoming Washington conference on the reduction of armaments and problems of the far east.

Japan, it is believed, will be thoroughly satisfied by the attitude of the United States toward subjects to be discussed, as expressed in a memorandum forwarded through the Japanese embassy by Secretary of State Hughes a few days ago.

Secretary Hughes' memorandum was in response to Japan's request for further information as to the scope of the conference.

U. S. Message to Japan.
The secretary is understood to have outlined the United States' position as follows:

That the agenda for the conference should not be prepared in advance of acceptance of a formal invitation to participate by all the powers.

Following acceptance of the invitation the United States, although opposed to too great restriction upon the scope of the discussions, is agreeable to informal discussions with the invited powers as to the general line of subjects to be included in the program.

That the agenda to be adopted ultimately with all the powers invited to determine, in which determination Japan would have as much voice as any other nation.

PRELIMINARY MEET FAVORED.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
LONDON, July 25.—Ambassador Harvey has presented to the British foreign office a long note in which Secretary of State Hughes says Washington is in favor of a preliminary conference on the Pacific questions, but does not want it to be held in London.

He does not specify a meeting place for the preliminary conference, but it is inferred that he wants it to be held either in America or in some neutral country. He also says Nov. 11 was selected as the date for the opening of the main conference for sentimental reasons, but any other date would do as well.

LEN SMALL AS CHAMPION OF THE PEOPLE.

On Saturday Gov. Small came to Chicago to make a speech at a picnic rally organized by the city hall machine.

Mr. Small had been indicted for embezzlement and for conspiracy to defraud the state. He had answered the indictment by the familiar counter charge that he is the victim of political conspiracy.
He did not then and he has not yet given any explanation of the remarkable circumstances already made public, which are the main basis of the legal accusation against him. As to these he has contested himself with a general declaration of innocence. He does not deny they are facts. He does not explain why the conclusion of guilt implied
by the indictments is erroneous.

To offset this economy, Mr. Small accuses the attorney general, TIM TRIBUNE and the Chicago Daily News, and certain malign and mysterious forces which he calls "rich tax dodgers, and utility interests, the cement trust, etc." with conspiracy to "assassinate his character."

There is one plain and easy method of defeating such a conspiracy, a method which, it seems to us, any innocent man would hasten to adopt. That is to demand immediate trial.

But Mr. Small has discovered it to be his duty as governor to resist the usual process of reaching a judicial determination of guilt or innocence, and is taking refuge in oratorical counter charges, which have nothing whatever to do with the question at issue—namely: what became of the public money in his charge as state treasurer, and with oratorical praise of himself as a champion of the people "as against the great moneyed corporations."

Such being the situation, the public must wait upon events for the legal ascertainment of Mr.
Small's guilt or innocence under the indictments,
and in the meanwhile may be interested to look over his other assertions, though they are wholly irrelevant to the questions on which he is avoiding trial.

Mr. Small in his Tammany picnic speech assured his hearers that "it is a hard job working for the interests of the people."

He also declared: "There is no money to be made working for the people's interests as against the great moneyed interests. If there is any money to be made, it is always for those who are on the side of the great wealthy corporations."

These are illuminating remarks. Let us take a bird's-eye view of Mr. Small's political career as it is lit up for our benefit by these assertions. In tabloid form here are the high lights in the evolution of a friend of the "peepul," as Gov. Small is now dubbing himself:

Back in 1854 Mr. Small and the late Edward C.
Curtis, his "discoverer," went out and, after mopping up the old Kankakee county ring, substituted a political ring of their own. Mr. Curtis went to the legislature, Mr. Small became county chairman and later clerk of the county court. At the Republican state convention of 1896 they showed with a delegation from Kankakee county for the nomination of John R. Tanner for governor.

When the legislature met in 1897, Gov. Tanner got into a political row over the selection of a speaker, and Mr. Curtis was elected to the post as a compromise. He demanded that Mr. Small be appointed as a trustee for the eastern hospital for the insane at Kankakee. Gov. Tanner made the appointment; shortly afterwards Mr. Small became president of the board, and his reign as boss of Kankakee began. His friendship for the people at this time consisted of organizing the Kankakee asylum into the foundation of a political machine.
There were the jobs and the contracts, all used as "patronage." The president could make and unmake contracts with the utmost ease, and every ton of coal and every side of beef sold to the institution was supposed to have the political support of the contractor tossed in for good measure.

For years Kankakee was known familiarly in Illinois politics as the most absolutely boss-ridden institution in the state. Employees who ran counter to the wishes of the machine were thrown out without ceremony. At Springfield, as Mr. Small passed, politicians remarked, "There goes the boss of Kankakee."

The Humphrey and Allen traction bills, exploited by Yerkes and the Lorimerites, were before the legislature in 1897. They would have given the traction interests a strangle hold on Chicago streets and on the strap-bangers. Public sentiment against the bills flamed to white heat in Chicago.
Mr. Curtis was speaker. He went to Mammoth Cave. During his absence the Allen bill was passed. At this time Mr. Small was still a rather obscure figure in politics. He was not a member of the legislature, but he was bosom friend of the speaker—the two were inseparable—and during the debate he spent much time at Springfield. His friendship for the people at this period did not impel him to raise his voice in protest against the iniquitous traction measures—if he did it was a dovetail voice. In fact, it was during this 1897 session, as the older politicians recall it, that Mr.
Small first worked himself into the confidence of the Lorimer field marshals, and the Lorimerites soon began to regard him as the ally who would deliver Kankakee county whenever a fight came up.

In 1900 the Kankakee crowd, headed by Mr.
Small and Mr. Curtis, went to the Republican state convention red hot for Richard Yates for governor.
Small was elected senator, but this did not lead him to relinquish his grip on the Kankakee machine. He kept control. Typical of the "radicalism" of these days were the celebrated "slush funds" of the Yates campaign. Instead of a 5 cent fare a 5 per cent assessment on state employees was the rallying cry in politics—in the caucus chambers and the kitchen cabinets. There was much ado over alleged assessments at Kankakee. Later on the "slush fund" abuses in Illinois institutions were the basis for a fight for a strong state civil service act.

In 1904 the friend of the people went on the slate for state treasurer. When Gov. Yates finally broke the deadlock convention by throwing his strength to Charles S. Deneen. Four years later Lorimer backed Yates against Deneen in the state primaries. For campaign manager for Yates they selected the great "radical," Len Small. Nineteen hundred and nine saw the election of William Lorimer as senator. Nineteen hundred and ten saw the appointment of Mr. Small as assistant United States treasurer at Chicago.

The "Jackpot" scandal broke out. Lorimer's election was made the subject of an investigation by the United States senate, too recent to need elaboration. The Lorimerites took Abraham Lincoln for their patron saint; they painted themselves as being attacked by the "interests"; they were white fleeing lambs with the wolves snapping at their heels—to listen to their arguments. The Lorimer inquiry was drawing to its culmination when the April primaries of 1912 rolled around.
The Lorimerites wanted Vox Pop to about a "vin-dication" for the blonde senator. So on Lincoln's birthday the Lorimer-Lincoln league, in solemn convocation at Springfield, picked Small as their candidate for governor. The campaign was blistering;
the issue was plain; nomination of the friend of the people, Small, would mean a "vindication" for Lorimer. Deneen beat Small almost two to one on April 9, and on July 14 the United States senate held Lorimer's election invalid. In 1917 Mr. Small again became state treasurer, backed by the Thompson-Lundin forces, which are the old Lorimer crowd revamped, and last year the same group ran him for governor, and he landed the nomination
by a scant 8,000 over John Oglesby, and the Harding landslide did the rest.

This, within a brief compass as can be managed, is an outline of Mr. Small's political affiliations and activities up to the resurrection of the Lundin power in Chicago.

We ask Mr. Small to point out anything in this picture or anything in any other act or association of his during this long period that indicates he was working for the people or doing anything which could offend or injure the "moneyed interests" or "great wealthy corporations" he is now accusing of conspiring to "assassinate his character."

We ask him to point out any moment during this long period he could be seen on the people's side of any issue?

Did he support the people's defense against the Yerkes conspiracy to steal the streets of Chicago?

He did not. On the contrary he belonged to the crowd which was Yerkes' ally and instrument.

Did he support the successful effort to break the power of the old reactionary congressional ring which ruled the national house of representatives and of which Lorimer was a pillar?

He did not. He belonged to the faction which fought the attack upon house control.

Did he support Theodore Roosevelt in his efforts at progressive political reform?

He did not. He belonged to the faction that fought and traduced Roosevelt.

Did he support any reform, wise or mistaken, which radicals or liberals of his party or any other party were fighting for?

He did not. He was a power in the faction that fought direct primaries and municipal ownership.
Whatever conservatives may think of these, Small and his faction could never be accused of showing anything but hostility to them or the principles they represent.

As a champion of the people, Mr. Small was very conspicuously absent during these years, and his conversion is recent and malodorous.

But Mr. Small has not been absent from these fields of public service which have to do with the public money. He declares there is no money in working for the people. But Mr. Small is not in a very good example of Lazarus at the table of Dives.
He is a banker of means and it is worthy of note that he and his political associates have had a persistent interest in that branch of our government which deals with the public moneys. Twice Mr.
Small has been state treasurer and his closest political associates have from time to time assumed that responsibility.

Perhaps this has all been an unprofitable working for the people. We hope it has been and that Mr.
Small will hasten to overwhelm any suspicions that he may have found his self-asserted "working for the people" less sacrificial than he declares it is.
Mr. Small knows how to overwhelm erroneous implication and unjust suspicions. It is by the disclosure of facts. It is not by smoky fulminations of the familiar Lundin-Thompson brand,
the parading of bugabooes, and the shrieking of unsupported counter charges. It is by simply letting out all the facts.

Editorial of the DayILLINOIS' PRIZE SCANDAL.

[New York World.]

Whether Gov. Small and Lieut. Gov. Sterling of Illinois are innocent or guilty of embezzlement of state funds on a large scale, it is evident that they have no convincing defense on the tips of their tongues to refute the astonishing accusations on which they are to be tried. The Sangamon county grand jury finds true bills against them for embezzling public moneys, conspiracy to defraud the state, and the operation of a confidence game. Gov. Small issues a statement charging a frameup by political opponents, but failing to offer any evidence, in contradiction of the indictments. Lieut. Gov. Sterling commits himself only to a disbelief in newspaper trials.

A more extraordinary situation has never arisen in the history of state government. Before the election it was pointed out by James Hamilton Lewis, the Democratic candidate, that Mr. Small had not rendered an adequate accounting for the use of public funds while state treasurer and was, therefore, ineligible for the governorship until such accounting had been made. In spite of this warning Small was elected, according to his own statement,
"by the greatest vote ever given to a chief executive in Illinois." The amounts the grand jury discovers still unaccounted for aggregate $1,700,000, and there is only the unsupported word of the officials whose probity is questioned to offset the charge of misappropriation.

Even if there has been no malfeasance in office
so far, the methods used in banking the money of Illinois taxpayers revealed by the jury's report are in themselves an invitation to fraud. Other states have needed housecleaning, but never more acutely than it appears now in Illinois.

APPLE BLOSSOMS.

When windblown apple blossoms, fallen, lie
Upon the ground, the morning mist, and spider
Their fragrant drifts up-gathering for my jar;
From which, on winter nights that hide the stars
And send abroad the silent cold, I break
The seals, and breathe the vital breath of spring,
Adown some lane, where Beauty's wide awake;
Yes, seem to hear, far off, a robin sing,
And seem to see again, in happy places,
The little young grass and other April faces.
Three little jars upon my mantel wait:
Two jars for Love, and each, yes, one for Hate—
For Hate, that he may heal himself and be Reborn, perchance renamed Felicity.

BURTON'S ANATOMIES OF MELANCHOLY.
Sir: Anent the parades in New York, may I quote friend Rascoe? I believe his paragraph might well be attached to the morgue photos, and left as a tremendous sidelight on contemporary history: ". . . a parade of whisky buses—browsers, prostitutes, thugs, kept women, Pollocks and Wonders, gorged noses—red, purple, lavender, dappled, lapis lazuli, spatulate, bulbous, horny, boneless, inflamed, puffed. Probably thirty out of our seven million marched on principle. I wanted to march for the first time in my life, but after watching the parade for half an hour I drank a bowl of grape juice and went home for a cold shower. The dry parade, of course, will be even more depressing—a vast organization of impotent and envious men, ghastly determined, and scowling, and SIMPLICISSIMUS."

THE question arises: Which is the naughtier, Main Street or Broadway? (Ask us something about Broadway's naughtiness is that bang on it, invokes the magic incandescent and sells it back to the Main Street at a goodly profit.

SICK ROOM PSYCHOLOGY.

"If only they would send us nurses who knew how to get at us," exclaimed a woman of the Mission
district in San Francisco.
Therapist Miss Higgins sat down and wrote a book. She called it "The Psychology of Nursing." In it she explains why people have such queer ways and say such queer things.

Sickness must come some people broad, charitable, and unselfish. It makes the majority selfish, narrow, and self-concerned.

Miss Higgins tells why certain types of people react mentally and emotionally in certain ways.
With the understanding of the conduct of the sick, the well should be able to meet situations and adapt themselves to the best advantage. The nurse who sits beside the sick bed can discharge her duties a good deal better if she understands the underlying reasons for conduct.

It may be worth a good deal to the patient to know that his nurse is on to him; that she is a practical psychologist, able to size him up for just what he is, to understand thoroughly how he feels his complaints; that her estimate of him is scientific as well as detached.
Miss Higgins has a group of girls from different sections of the country, differently educated and differently brought up, enter a training school at the same time. They see patients differently and estimate them differently, of course, because they themselves are different.
This way of doing things makes an opening for the study by the nurse of her own psychology, and this opportunity is not neglected.

I was interested in some statements of the different ways the nurse viewed things and estimated her patient's symptoms when she, the nurse, was menstruating. The type of mind of the nurse affects her type of reaction to menstruation.

From this book I turned to Michael Davis' "Immigrant Health and the Community," and I heard again the cry of the Mission district woman: "If only they would send us nurses who knew how to get at us!"

Only the cry of the immigrant is for doctors, hospitals, dispensaries, and a lot of other institutions and individuals, as well as nurses, "who know how to get at us!"

Davis has done a fine piece of report-orial work. When we read of the immigrant's hunger for food to which he is accustomed, for words whose meaning he knows, for understanding, if not sympathy, we can understand why his death rate and sickness rate are higher than that of people born in this country.
Then perhaps we find the answer, the only effective answer, to Michael Davis' broader of the exclamation of the Mission district woman in a third book.

CO-OPERATION NEEDED.
Chicago, July 19.—[Friend of the People.]—The alley between East 40th street and Bowen avenue is unbearable. There are several wagon loads of rubbish accumulated in heaps, consisting of everything imaginable, from bodies of decaying animals, actually in numbers, to broken glassware, refuse from the table,
all of which during hot weather, as we are now having, makes it very insanitary.

W. H.
The alley complained of has been cleared.
Dead animals complained of were brought there in a bar and deposited by some person unknown. They were removed by the dead animal department the next day.

Notices have been served where receptacles were found lacking.
It is a difficult matter for this bureau to maintain clean conditions unless we have the helpful cooperation of surrounding householders.

Superintendent of Streets.

SELL FOR CHARGES.
Chicago, July 19.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you kindly inform me how long, according to the Illinois law, a person's firm is required to hold goods before same can be sold to cover workmanship charges, the owner of above mentioned goods having moved from his former office and leaving no future address? A. T.

In the ordinary case a workman having the common law lien has no right to sell for his charges without the assent of the owner of the goods or without legal proceedings. As a practical matter little risk is usually run in selling without right, since, if refused, if we paid one month's rent and then do not move into the flat on account of conditions? Callings in bathroom falling and other things made the flat
an unsuitable place to live.

If not the entire sum, isn't it expected that they return at least one-half of the amount paid? H. S.

Ordinarily a tenant, having opportunity to inspect, takes the premises "as is," which would mean that you would be liable for the full rent.

TRIBUTE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NEEDS HIS DISCHARGE.
A victory medal, army discharge, and $13 in bills were lost in Grant park, near the new Field museum, Sunday night, and the owner is anxious to recover the articles. Will the finder please return to Peter Cusurris (whose name appears on the discharge), late of Casual Company 13, engineers. Send care of General

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE COST OF COAL.
Iowa City, Ia., July 20.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Herbert Hoover has taken the time and trouble to issue a statement to the press for circulation broadcast, urging public utility organizations and other groups to buy their coal now and forecasting a very undesirable situation later, if his suggestions are not followed. That he is convinced, even with the present business depression, the price of bituminous coal is not too high at the mines at this time. That with regard to coal movements later, the interstate commerce commission would not be disposed to issue priority rights for coal shipments later, even though the situation demanded it.

Well, well! It might behoove Mr.
Hoover and others in Washington to put in some time in behalf of the consumers, and instead of permitting the price of coal to be advanced 25 cents per ton each month, to get the price of coal down where it belongs, along with other necessaries of life.

The rest of the heated flat, the operation of industries and hauling of freight and passengers by coal burning locomotives is affected by the double cost of coal over the price it was sold for only a few years ago.

FOR TROUBLE LIVE.
H. R. writes: Kindly suggest a stimulant for inactive liver. Is lemon juice and hot water taken in the morning good for it? I have occasional bilious attacks and liver spots on my face.

REPLY.
Inactive liver means constipation, eating too much, exercising too little. Overcome constipation by eating bran, vegetables, fruit; exercise more, eat less. Lemon juice and hot water may help somewhat.

SYMPTOMS OF T. B.

sumption affect one?

GRAND JURY MAY DIG INTO GAMES AT RIVERVIEW

Discusses Gambling, Then Calls Fitzmorris.

The July grand jury is contemplating an investigation into reports that gambling is flourishing unmolested at Riverview park, according to information coming from the Criminal Court building yesterday. After discussing the advisability of going into the matter, the jury summoned Chief of Police Fitzmorris.

What the attitude of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe and his office is with regard to the proposed investigation is unknown. It is understood, however, that the subject was taken up with Mr. Crowe by members of the jury and that he was not enthusiastic in telling them that he had far more important matters for them to go into. It was hinted that the jury didn't agree with him.

Chief Denies Park Is Mentioned. Chief Fitzmorris, questioned after he left the grand jury room, denied that Riverview park had been mentioned. He admitted the jury had asked him about gambling conditions in Chicago. "The jury wanted to know about the general police conditions in the city," he said, "and they applauded when I told them about the reduction of crime. They seemed interested, too, in the gambling situation, especially when I told them that there was no open gambling in the city and that if any was discovered it would be suppressed at once."

35 Devices Found Operating.

Conditions at the Riverview amusement park were revealed a short time ago in The Tribune. An investigation showed that more than twenty-five paddlewheels or other devices were being operated openly, despite the fact that such devices are considered gambling by the police department.

A year ago a police lieutenant was paid twenty-nine days' pay for allowing a single paddlewheel to be operated at a church bazaar, and several weeks ago permission to operate such a wheel was denied another church picnic, but there has been no move to interfere with Riverview wheels. The matter has been put up to various city, county, and state officials and they have all denied responsibility.

THE POOR BULL!

ANDREW CASINO.
(Lester Photo Service.)

LOS toros! A los toros!

Aye, the bull fight is coming to Chicago. You can see it any afternoon or evening beginning next Saturday matinee until the last performance, Aug. 14.

It will be held in connection with Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey's circus at Grant park.

Andrew Casino—they call him "Little Casino"—is one of the picadors. A picador is the man who sits his fiery—though blindfolded—steed and jabs the bull with a lance whenever the bull charges.

The bull is a goat, of course, but he's got real bull's horns fixed to his head. And he puts up a real fight, they say.

BANKS IN WHICH EXPERTS CACHE BIG FEES BARED

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

The council subcommittee—Ald. Schwartz, Guernsey, and Woodhull—appointed to investigate expert fees, hit a new trail yesterday. This disclosure for the first time some of the banks in which the five experts placed a part, at least, of the $274,000 which they received from the city treasury, according to the subcommittee.

One alderman said that he is confident that the subcommittee will be able to follow the trail into the banks and there ascertain whether the fees have remained in the banks, and if not, when and how the money was taken out of the banks.

Where They Put Their Money.

The subcommittee's information shows that the various experts deposited fees obtained from the city in the banks designated:

Frank H. Meese, building expert—Harris Trust and Savings bank, First National bank, and Fort Dearborn National bank.

Austin J. Lynch, building expert—Harris Trust and Savings bank, Fort Dearborn National bank, and State Bank of Chicago.

Edward C. Waller Jr., real estate expert—Fort Dearborn National bank, Central Trust company, and Standard Trust and Savings bank.

Arthur S. Merigold, real estate expert—Fort Dearborn National bank and Standard Trust and Savings bank.

Ernest H. Lyons, real estate expert—State Bank of Chicago and Standard Trust and Savings bank.

It will be noticed that three of the experts used three banks each, and two of the experts used two banks each. Expert Lyons, when before the committee last week, testified that he used the two banks designated, which the subcommittee has later found to be correct. But the committee has information that some of the other experts used more banks than indicated in the above summarization, but the names of these have not been made public.

Probably the reason for withholding the information is the fact that the four remaining experts have been invited to appear before the committee this afternoon at 2 o'clock, Lyons having testified last week.

Dupee Fails to Appear.

Eugene H. Dupee, special attorney in street improvement cases, was the witness called yesterday. He failed to appear. Instead he sent a statement giving his views of the qualifications of experts and some information regarding other points in the legal and of street improvement cases. It was read in full. Then Lawrence Cohen, one of the attorneys for the committee, commented on the statement.

"That is not satisfactory. We haven't been given all the information to which we are entitled. I don't understand why Mr. Dupee failed to appear."

"I indorse what Mr. Cohen has said," remarked Attorney Louis Hart. "Mr. Dupee owes it to the city, as well as courtesy to the committee, to appear."

"He promised to return when he was last here," said Ald. Guernsey. "He should be given another opportunity."

Ask Him to Appear Today.

Accordingly the committee wrote another letter to Mr. Dupee, asking him to be on hand this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The mandamus to compel Deputy Controller Gosselin to permit the alderman to see certain vouchers and warrants showing payments to the experts is scheduled for a hearing tomorrow. Mr. Gosselin said yesterday:

"I shall be guided entirely by the advice of the city law department in answering the mandamus."

It was announced at the corporation counsel's office that it has not decided what its course will be with reference to the application for a mandamus.

CRANE OIL BURNER

This is the burner correct in every detail. Every operation necessary for the proper and economical combustion of fuel oil is efficiently performed by this wonderful device, which can be attached to your present heating plant.

Crane burners are in use and are being installed throughout this city. They have proven themselves in factories, institutions and residences.

Fuel oil is recognized as the most economical of fuels in point of cost and efficiency. Fuel oil contains more heat units per pound than any other oil or coal and burns more completely. There is no waste, dirt or ash in its burning.

A Crane Burner is automatic in its operation and requires no attention. A uniform heat of whatever temperature you desire is obtained by your own adjustment of the automatic thermometer located in the part of the house most convenient to you.

Crane burners are in constant operation at our salesrooms. Come in today for a practical demonstration. We can prove to you—positively—that everything we say about this simple device is true, and we can show you that users will back us up to the letter in everything we say.

Winter is not as far off as this heat wave might make us believe. Don't put off your investigating—do it now.

Brown's Job

BROWN is gone, and many men in the trade are wondering who is going to get Brown's job.

There has been considerable speculation about this. Brown's job was reputed to be a good job. Brown's former employers, wise, grey-eyed men, have had to sit still and repress amazement as they listened to bright, ambitious young men and dignified old ones seriously apply for Brown's job.

Brown had a big chair and a wide, flat-topped desk covered with a sheet of glass. Under the glass was a map of the United States. Brown had a salary of thirty thousand dollars a year. And twice a year Brown made a "trip to the coast" and called on every one of the firm's distributors.

He never tried to sell anything. Brown wasn't exactly in the sales department. He visited with the distributors, called on a few dealers, once in a while made a little talk to a bunch of salesmen. Back at the office he answered most of the important complaints, although Brown's job wasn't to handle complaints.

Brown wasn't in the credit department either, but vital questions of credit usually got to Brown, somehow or other, and Brown would smoke and talk and tell a joke, and twist his telephone cord and tell the credit manager what to do.

Whenever Mr. Wythe, the impulsive little president, working like a beaver, would pick up a bunch of papers and peer into a particularly troublesome and messy subject, he had a way of saying, "What does Brown say? What does Brown say? What the hell does Brown say?—Well, why don't you do it, then?"

And that was disposed. Or when there was a difficulty that required quick action and lots of it, together with tact and lots of that, Mr. Wythe would say, "Brown, you handle that."

And then one day, the directors met unofficially and decided to fire the superintendent of No. 2 Mill. Brown didn't hear of this until the day after the letter had gone. "What do you think of it, Brown?" asked Mr. Wythe. Brown said, "That's all right. The letter won't be delivered until tomorrow morning, and I'll get him on the wire and have him start East tonight. Then I'll have his stenographer send the letter back here and I'll destroy it before he sees it."

The others agreed, "That's the thing to do."

Brown knew the business he was in. He knew the men he worked with. He had a whole lot of sense, which he apparently used without consciously summoning his judgment to his assistance. He seemed to think good sense.

Brown is gone, and men are now applying for Brown's job. Others are asking who is going to get Brown's job—bright, ambitious young men, dignified older men.

Men who are not the son of Brown's mother, nor the husband of Brown's wife, nor the product of Brown's childhood—men who never suffered Brown's sorrows nor felt his joys, men who never loved the things that Brown loved nor feared the things he feared—are asking for Brown's job.

Don't they know that Brown's chair and his desk, with the map under the glass top, and his pay envelope, are not Brown's job? Don't they know that they might as well apply to the Methodist Church for John Wesley's job?

Brown's former employers know it. Brown's job is where Brown is.

EX-PRESIDENT'S LAW FIRM WINS FIGHT ON SHIPS

New York, July 25.—The United States Mail Steamship company today legally regained through temporary injunction possession of nine steamships seized from it last week by the United States shipping board on charges of delinquency in payment of $400,000 charter hire.

The temporary injunction will be in effect until Thursday. It was issued on application of Bainbridge Colby, who is now practicing law with Woodrow Wilson. Mr. Colby appeared in court with Delaney Nicoll, who also is counsel for the company.

The writ of injunction, issued by State Supreme Court Justice Burr, restrains the shipping board and the United American Lines, to which such ships as were ready to sail were temporarily assigned for operation, from any interference with the affairs of the company.

In New Jersey, where the United States Mail Steamship company again took possession of the liner America, scheduled to sail for Bremen tomorrow, a temporary injunction to restrain the shipping board from interfering with the sailing was temporarily denied. Vice Chancellor Lewis, to whom the application was made, announced he would consider the application and return a decision later, probably tomorrow. Meanwhile preparations were continued to get the America to sea with its 810 passengers on scheduled time.

The ships involved in the seizure aggregate 145,000 gross tons, with an estimated valuation of approximately $8,000,000. They are the George Washington, America, President Grant, Agamemnon, Susquehanna, Potomac, Mount Vernon, Pocahontas, and the Princess Matoika.

Breaking Up the Business Jam

IT ISN'T the manufacturer's selling force that is to blame primarily for the business jam that has tied up so many good enterprises.

It isn't the wholesaler. In most cases neither the product nor the price is to blame.

The business jam today is at the retailer's front door. You can't get more goods into his store through his back door until you have dynamited the buying jam at his front door. His customers are not buying. They have to be sold.

All the selling effort in the world on the retailer won't help your situation, but a common sense amount of selling effort for the retailer will soon move the obstructions and your business will start to flow again.

Many Increase Sales Now
Do you realize that some manufacturers are showing sales increases in comparison with 1920?

Take for example Simmons Beds in the Indianapolis Radius. It wasn't so long ago that this well-made, well-sold piece of furniture was very little known. Today the furniture store in this market that does not carry the Simmons Beds and push them is a rare exception. Dominant newspaper advertising, directly aimed at the consumer—the one who in the last analysis decides whether your goods are to move or not, is moving goods for Simmons and can move them for you in Indianapolis.

Merchandise Your Campaign

Pick out those markets in which you have distribution. Go into them with dominant newspaper advertising in the dominant newspaper of the major city of that market. Merchandise the campaign with your dealers. Don't expect a 4,000 line campaign to do the merchandising work of 20,000 lines. Merchandise only in those markets that you can cover efficiently at a minimum cost.

With one cost you can cover the Indianapolis Radius with dominant advertising in The Indianapolis News, a great newspaper, which is read in practically every home in this American city and with a blanketing circulation in the closely-knit Indianapolis Radius.

Check on Indianapolis

Check up on your distribution in this market. Or better, get in touch direct with us or through your advertising agency. We will be glad to tell you whether or not conditions warrant your making a merchandising campaign at this time in this great responsive market.

KEMALISTS FLEE BEFORE GREEKS IN ASIA MINOR

Heavy Battle Expected at Angora.

BY LARRY RUE.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
ANGORA, July 25.—Notwithstanding the successes of the Greek advance in Asia Minor, the main objectives of the offensive remain still to be accomplished—the capture and capitulation of the Kemal Pasha, or the overthrow of the Nationalist government and the substitution of another.

The Turkish front today, where I spent four days with the 12th division, which was on the move from the morning until 10 at night in an attempt to cut off the Turks retreating from Kutaya.

However, though averaging twenty miles a day through narrow mountain passes and arriving from Beyk, Kutaya and Afyon Karahissar, near Karon, on the railroad near Eskişehir, within a day after Kutaya had fallen, outside of clashes with ambushing forces, the Greeks failed to establish contact with the fast retreating Nationalists.

Turks Abandon Arms.
The Turks in their retreat abandoned great quantities of war material. Practically all the fighting so far has been performed by Kemal's four divisions, which indicates the nationalist leader is playing the old Russian game of permitting the enemy to advance until it outstrips its communications and then beginning a series of small but deadly attacks to worry the leaders and to destroy morale preliminary to a counter offensive.

Capt. Cherifeddin, chief of staff of the fourth Turkish army, who was wounded and captured by the Greeks, said that Kemal is so situated that he can give up Angora and withdraw to the Persian border if necessary in order to permit the Greeks to spend their efforts on futile air fighting.

Greek Losses Heavy.
The Greek cavalry brigade and the 33rd infantry regiment were practically wiped out at Karabazir, in the Euphrates basin south of Eskişehir on July 19 when they were rushing ahead to open an attack on Eskişehir where the Turks escaped. The cavalry and infantry were ambushed in a narrow pass.

These heroic attempts were made to capture the heights, but each time the Greek ranks were mowed down by artillery, machine gun and rifle fire. The Turks had plotted out every retreat and when the escaping horsemen appeared in these places the artillery waited perfect hits. This was the story told by wounded, returning soldiers.

The Turks who inflicted this setback are now in Angora pass, where, no doubt, they have prepared an ambush.

CITY BEACH SUIT 'TRUST' GETS IN 2 FAT DAYS, QUILTS

Burkhardt 'Considers Public Comfort.'

Concessionaires at municipal beaches stopped renting city-owned bathing suits for private gain yesterday on order of Deputy Commissioner of Public Works William Burkhardt.

The council order directing that the practice "cease at once" was passed on Friday, but over Sunday Otto Weisheit and James G. McGrath, the concessionaires were permitted to rent out the city's suits at 25 cents each, to WM. BURKHARDT.

Mr. Burkhardt conferred yesterday with Ald. Joseph McDonough, chairman of the council committee on parks, playgrounds and beaches. Arrangements were made, Mr. Burkhardt announced, for an appraisal of the 6,000 city suits that Weisheit and McGrath are using. The concessionaires are willing to buy the suits at a "fair appraisal price," he said.

Ald. McDonough issued a call for a meeting of his committee this morning. He announced that Weisheit, McGrath, and Burkhardt had been summoned to appear, and that the "bathing suit scandal" will be aired. He threatened to start civil suits against Weisheit and McGrath.

Chief Fitzmorris was requested by Mr. Burkhardt to prevent "squatters" from taking over street ends and stopping public bathing there. Walter Wright, head of the bureau of beaches, declared that "as long as the public is paying the salary of a life guard the public will be permitted to bathe there."

DON'T FEED CHILD TOO MUCH CANDY, OSTEOPATH SAYS

"If you hate your child, cram him with dainties."

Dr. E. O. Jones of Evanston, speaking at the annual convention of the American Osteopathic association in Cleveland, O., yesterday, had quite a bit to say about babies.

"Correction of diet and elimination will prevent the so-called 'nervous' diseases in children," he said. "Many children just out of infancy are allowed to eat meats, sugar, and too much starchy food."

"Such eating habits fail to make the child develop normally and we have become so accustomed to see children distinctly below par physically that parents feel no sense of guilt, though the condition of these children is wholly the result of ignorance or indifference."

JEALOUS WIFE ADMITS KILLING MRS. ESPOSITO

Had Son Trail Husband, She Tells Police.

Mrs. Emilia Panico confessed last night that she is the woman who murdered Mrs. Esposito.

"I could not stop them on Saturday," Mr. Burkhardt explained. "If I had the hundreds who came to the city beaches without suits on Saturday and Sunday could have had no swim."

HARDING WOULD EXTEND POWERS OF FINANCE BODY

To Act on Rail, Farm, and Export Matters.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., July 25.—[Special.]—President Harding in a message to congress tomorrow will urge the extension of the powers of the war finance corporation not only to take care of the railroad situation but also to broaden its activities with respect to farm credits and export trade.

A bill has been drafted which will be transmitted with the letter from the President dealing with the situation. The war finance corporation under the proposed measure will become the most important agency of the government for dealing with the economic readjustment.

Think Norris Bill Unwise.
Secretary Hoover, as well as other officials of the administration, believe that it would be unwise for the government to embark upon an extensive business venture as provided in the Norris bill. Under that bill the proposed corporation, which would be financed by $100,000,000 of government money, would not only make loans to aid the exportation of farm products but also would buy and sell such products.

The bill is proposed by the administration with a view of causing the senate to sidetrack the Norris bill which is now under discussion.

To Advance Cash to Carriers.
With reference to the railroad situation it is understood congress will be asked to place the war finance corporation in position to advance funds to the railroad administration for making settlements with the railroads.

It is understood that the proposal is to have the war finance corporation take the securities which the railroads will give to the railroad administration as evidence of their indebtedness on account of expenditures made by the government on railroad property and advance thereon money to the railroad administration.

WILSON REGIME BLAMED FOR U. S. NEGLECT OF VETS

Neither the administration nor congress until last winter seemed to have any conception of the magnitude of the task of caring for the disabled veterans, according to Cummings testimony.

Estimates of probable needs, warnings of the problem ahead, pleas for adequate appropriations went unheeded. As early as Sept. 7, 1918, two months before the armistice was signed, the public health service drew up a report to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, estimating that 26,000 soldiers would need treatment, and that $10,000,000 would be necessary to begin work on a hospitalization program in order to have proper facilities ready to take care of disabled men returning from the war.

This memorandum was accompanied by a tentative draft of legislation to carry the plan through congress. Finally, on March 3, 1919, congress appropriated $5,000,000 for hospitalization. This money was spent largely in the improvement of existing facilities, the results in some cases being like "pouring water into a rat hole," according to Cummings.

Conditions, Cummings said, would be improved somewhat upon the completion of the Speedway hospital at Chicago with 1,000 beds capacity, and the Jackson Park hospital, also at Chicago, with 120 beds capacity.

The senate and house conferees on the bill for the relief of disabled veterans began work today. They had before them about 80 points of dispute, only one or two of which are regarded as important.

SLOOP VIRGINIA WINS CRUISE TO MACKINAC ISLE

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 25.—[Special.]—Carlos Alling's class Q Virginia, flying the colors of the Jackson Park Yacht club, won the Chicago Yacht club's annual Mackinac race, the yachting classic of the great lakes, today in a jib and jib finish with J. P. O'Rourke's Chaparron.

Virginia won the event by two minutes and seven seconds, less than half a second a mile for the 231 miles of the course.

The winner crossed the line at 1:42:25 o'clock this afternoon, its corrected time from Chicago being 38:57:59.

C. W. Crafts' Jackson Park II, was third boat, nearly one hour behind Chaparron. Corcoran's Glen was fourth, giving the Q boats from the south side club a clean sweep in the contest.

Dorello First at Finish.

Morgan L. Eastman's Dorello, largest sloop in the contest, was the first to reach the finish. It crossed at 11:46:13 this morning, but had no chance to win, as it was closely followed by Mavrouneen and Intrepid, to which it had to give more than three hours' time allowance. At that time it looked as if the famous little Mavrouneen, which won the race in the big wind in 1911, and set a record of a little better than twenty-eight hours for the course, would be the winner.

None of the rest of the fleet was in sight, but a freshening breeze shoved the Q boats up over the horizon and the hopes of J. G. Glaver, owner of Mavrouneen, were blown away, for his boat had to give too much time to the latter craft.

Weather Heavy Squall.

The race from Chicago was a comparatively easy one. A fine favorable breeze held most of the way until Point Betsy was passed, late yesterday afternoon.

Toward midnight a heavy squall blew up out of the west and kicked up a bad cross sea, but the yachts weathered it well and made a good deal better time toward the straits. Up to this time the big three, Dorello, Intrepid, and Mavrouneen, were fighting for the lead, but early this morning Dorello passed ahead and turned into the straits with a lot of water between it and the rest of the fleet. However, it could not get out far enough to beat the time allowance.

Motor Boat Sets Record.

Only three motor boats started in the race, each in a different class. Dick Davis' F D Q was the first to arrive in Mackinac, getting in here yesterday afternoon at 2:06:14, its time for the race being 20:06:14, which is a record for motor boats.

J. E. Roberts' Maurice checked in this morning at 8:30 o'clock, after spending three hours getting gasoline at Frankfort Sunday night. Its time was 20:30:00. Dr. P. H. Miller's Wyllys T was third to arrive, getting here two hours later than Maurice and making the voyage in 40:30:00.

Following is the finish:

| Yacht and owner | Finish | Time |
|--------------------------------|----------|----------|
| Virginia (C. Alling) | 1:42:25 | 38:57:59 |
| Chaparron (J. P. O'Rourke) | 2:54:49 | 39:00:00 |
| Jackson Park II (C. W. Crafts) | 2:43:06 | 39:58:40 |
| Glen (J. E. Corcoran) | 2:46:06 | 40:02:16 |
| Mavrouneen (J. G. Glaver) | 12:10:11 | 40:09:54 |
| Intrepid (J. P. O'Rourke) | 12:27:09 | 41:14:43 |
| Wyllys T (P. H. Miller) | 11:46:13 | 40:30:00 |
| Agawa (J. E. Roberts) | 8:30:00 | 50:28:29 |

Woods and Waters by LARRY STJOHN

NOTES BY THE WAY.

REPORTS from some regions indicate that fishing shows a little improvement, but generally speaking the major game fishes are still out of sorts and refuse to recognize good casting when they see it. Occasionally a north wind cools things off a bit and gives the fish a little pep, a condition that does not seem to last long in most waters.

We have not received a report of a good sized muskie being caught in the last ten days, good strings of bass are outnumbered by fishermen ten to one, while trout fishing nowadays consists mostly of admiring the pretty posies on the river bank.

Pike, however, are biting well in most of the northern lake and some good strings are being brought in from the Kalamazoo at Saugatuck and from the St. Joe at Berrien Springs.

In some of the Wisconsin and Michigan streams a good many trout are dying. This is due partly to the high temperature of the water, but as much to the lack of aeration because of absence of winds. Rivers that suffer most in this respect are those whose banks have been denuded by forest fires. One cannot be too careful with fire in the woods during a dry season like this.

But there is a silver bass lining to the cloud; blue gills are biting well in deep water on worms and crickets; catfish bass are taking May flies; in some of the larger, sluggish rivers good catches of big catfish are being made.

BRITISH GOLF CRACKS PLAY EVANS AND MAYO AT EDGEWATER TODAY

BY ALBON HOLDEN.

One of the biggest days in the history of the Edgewater Golf club is scheduled for today, when Chick Evans and Charles Mayo take stand on their home links against the touring British professionals, George Duncan and Abe Mitchell, who will make their second Chicago appearance.

If familiarity with the course is of any advantage—and it is generally conceded to be—then the local stars should have better than an even chance to reverse the lopsided victory of the visitors, who won, 7 up and 5 to play, against Evans and Phil Gaudin at Skokie on Sunday.

Evans grew up with the old Edgewater club, and made his first bid to international fame about twelve years ago, when he was a youngster. He has played the new course hundreds of times, and should know every gopher hole and blade of grass on the links. Mayo is the Edgewater professional and is equally familiar with the course.

The morning round starts at 9 o'clock, and the second eighteen holes is scheduled for 2 p. m. The public is invited and an admission charge will be made for the gallery following the play.

The Edgewater club may be reached by the surface lines, taking a No. 1 or No. 25 car to Pratt boulevard and walking four blocks west. Spectators using the elevated are advised to get off at the Granville station and take No. 1 street car to Pratt boulevard. The route by auto is out Sheridan road and west on Pratt.

IT'S a toss up as to whether or not you like this picture. If, to feel you have your money's worth, you must have your star woo, win, and do a final clutch and fadeout with the beautiful head, you are doomed for a sad disappointment.

There is no question of the star doing any of these things. He wouldn't have a girl on his hands for anything; if he wanted her he wouldn't have the remotest idea how to go after her. After he'd won her—after MAYBE he'd won her—he wouldn't have known what on earth to do with her.

No, the star in this film is just a ragged hobo, called Whistling Dick, and he has a horrible fear that continually gnaws at his vitals. It is the fear that some day somebody will corral him and put him to work.

Like a goose he goes south when cold weather hits these parts. He lands in New Orleans, where he meets up with, as they say in hobo parlance, some old pals, who are engaged in a deep plot to rob Bellemeade, an estate near by, of money that is to be brought there to pay the help at Christmas. The sum will be a large one, for the plantation has many hands and there is to be extra for those who work on Christmas day.

They want Dick to do the dirty work. He calmly refuses with a futuristic eye on a possible rock pile, and leaves their company.

Fate sets in his way the daughter of Bellemeade, who is kind to him, the handsome young overster of the estate who loves the daughter, and a smooth dark gentleman who would like to marry the daughter for her money. It develops later that the latter is in league with the hobo.

Whistling Dick follows the plot and the family swamps him with kindness. They offer him a steady job. Which is where they make their BIG mistake.

The photoplay is an adaptation of O. Henry's story, "Whistling Dick's Christmas Stocking." I think it's a good picture.

FASHION'S BLUE BOOK

BY CORINNE LOWE.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—That favorite news head, "An Uprising of the Reds," is justified by the summer fashions. Red flannel sports clothes mark each hole on the links of the mode. Scarlet millinery is rampant. And the favored checked gingham comes in red and white. Here we see the garish tint introduced not only in the figure of this English saten morning frock but in the touches of trimming. For the perky bows are of red grosgrain ribbon, and very smart they look on the white organdy with which the saten is combined. A particularly attractive touch on this dress is the wheel-shaped pockets.

CLOSEUPS

Rex Ingram, after completing a couple more pictures here, will go abroad to produce. Miss Terry, to whom he is engaged, a number of other players and his camera man, John Seitz, will accompany him. It is whispered that the marriage of the director and his star will take place in Dublin, where Ingram's father is a clergyman in the Episcopal church.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

MRS. L. K. DOESN'T THAT sound ridiculous on the face of it? A glass of lemonade a day wouldn't reduce you any more than a glass of water would. If you eat fat on, you have to eat it off again, and that's all there is to it. If you drink something that would spoil your appetite, it might do the trick. But you have to spoil your appetite now. Food reduction and working the fat off the muscles with exercise is the only way you can get through the gates to Slimville. Send a. a. e. and I'll give you the diets and exercises.

G. E.: EAT SIMPLE, WELL cooked food, and eat regularly. Avoid fat and starchy foods. Bat brain muscles and steamed fruit at breakfast. Take mineral oil as a laxative.

Coal of Fire.
Like most young fellows, I have a best girl.

One day I took her to lunch, and, wishing to get away immediately after lunch, I made an excuse, saying, "Maria, I've got a bunch of bills to pay this noon, and since I only have an hour for lunch, I think I'll have to leave you now."

Now, my girl is sensible, so she did not object, but got a mental enlargement of this as we got to the cashier's desk. I found I was 7 cents short of the lunch check; and, worst of all, my best girl had to furnish the 7 cents, and also offered to loan me enough money to pay my bills. D. C.

SIGNS MULTIPLY OF LIVENING UP IN INDUSTRIES

BY P. A. MATHER.

Further signs of a gradual improvement in business are not lacking. Yesterday brought news of several developments, while every day of late has seen the growth of a more cheerful sentiment. With these constructive factors there also is continuing the process of price and wage readjustment, which must reach a stabilized level before the basis for another prosperous period can be laid.

The most encouraging item in yesterday's news was evidence that the textile industry, which was one of the first to suffer from deflation, and most severely, has now become stabilized. The American Woolen company held its opening sale of spring goods for 1921. Prices were either the same or slightly higher than a year ago. But the sale was reported a success, buying being good and two popular lines. The schedule will be five days, and the company probably will be allotted.

X. C. Shops Take Back 60¢

About 600 men returned to work at the New York Central railroad locomotive shops at West Albany, N. Y. The number represents half of the normal working force. The shops have been closed for six months. The American Locomotive and Machine Company will operate 200 hot mills at its Shenango plant in New Castle, Pa., an increase of ten mills. The schedule will be five days a week. The Highland park textile mills, extending five plants in North Carolina, will resume operations as soon as enough workers can be obtained. Normally these mills employ about 1,500 operatives. The International Paper company, which orders the number of its mills in operation.

An additional reduction of 10 per cent in the wages of its 10,000 miners and further continuation of operations. A company representative in the American Locomotive district was announced by the Oliver Iron company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation. The wage cut takes effect Aug. 1. The Western Locomotive company also announced a wage cut of 10 per cent, effective Aug. 1.

Price Recession Continues.

The general trend of commodity prices toward a lower level remains well displayed by some quotations. A comprehensive list of wholesale quotations compiled by Dun's Review shows there were 61 price recessions last week, as against 54 advances. In the preceding week out of a total of 53 changes there were 44 declines, while a comparison with the corresponding week last year shows 44 recessions and 39 increases.

The index number of wholesale prices, compiled by the federal reserve board from 26 quotations for representative commodities, shows a decline in prices during June of 2 per cent, compared with a decline of one-half of 1 per cent during May. On the basis of prices in 1913 equal to 100, commodities imported and shipped from an index number of 105 during May to 102 during June. Prices of exports also declined from 125 in May to 122 in June. The all commodities index for June stands at 123, a comparison with 142 in May. The figures are weighted according to the importance of the commodity before the index number is constructed.

The New York Times.

New York, July 26.—[Special.]—The recovery in stock market prices which began early last week continued today. The tone was steady, even though there was some profit taking to be absorbed. The market has undoubtedly passed the point where all the rise can be attributed to purchasing for the retirement of short contracts. There has been some buying for long account, but this does not necessarily mean there is a public interest accumulating. In the surface there is little to indicate any other than professional operations.

In some respects today's display was noteworthy. The industrials, such as the tobacco and rubber stocks, were in greater demand, indicating perhaps that the stock market is beginning to take account of the betterment predicted in certain avenues of trade. Suspension of a large stock exchange house did not cause any prominent check on the rise of prices.

Rail issues were firm. To those who are secured railroad earnings for June the display of the Pennsylvania system was interesting. While gross was slightly under the same month last year, there was an increase in net operating income of $1,824,425 which turned a deficit of June, 1920, into a surplus of $6,029,543 this year. During the six months ended with June the gross increased $1,824,425, but net increased by $46,247,890.

In foreign exchange there was another display of weakness. Sterling dropped to 35.65 and closed at 35.64, a loss of 1 cent. Exchange moved against Paris, Amsterdam, Berlin, and Madrid, but Paris recovered moderately.

RAILROAD NOTES

During the week ending July 22 last, 28,500 cars were handled by the Atchafalaya, compared with 29,000 for the same week last year, a decrease of 500 cars. Cars loaded in the week ending July 22 last, showed a gain of 181, due to the heavy movement of grain and refrigerator freight. Lumber loadings were also of greater volume.

The American Railway Association reports increase of 2,525 in the number of surplus cars for the week ending July 15, due mainly to a reduction in the demand for coal cars in the east.

Tentative valuations of railroads fixed yesterday by the interstate commerce commission were: Dallas Terminal railway and union depot, $1,187,810; Green Bay and Western (Wisconsin), $2,588,695; Kewanee, Rock Island and Western, $1,299,195; Annapolis and Western (Maryland), $470,408; Hoosier Tunnel and Wilmington railroad (Vermont), $644,664; New York Street railway (Massachusetts), $151,183.

The Chicago Great Western railroad will run special trains to and from Chicago for the opening of the Piquette Progress on Sunday. Low round trip fares will be charged. Travelers are honored only on the special trains.

An increase of $53,000,000 in capital stock of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company was authorized by the stockholders at a special meeting in Louisville yesterday. The directors also were authorized to apply to the interstate commerce commission for permission to distribute proceeds of the new issue as a stock dividend.

Advance estimates indicate the earnings of the St. Paul for June will be sufficient for the first time in six months to pay all operating expenses, taxes and rents and leave a handsome net to apply on bond interest. H. E. Byram, president of the St. Paul, was reported definitely to get the property on a sound footing and the figures, which will be ready for release soon, apparently will show shadow realization of his ambition. July system loadings on the Burlington for the last twenty-one days of July were 4 per cent less than in July, 1920, for line west, and 22.9 per cent for line east, and the total decrease was 21.9 per cent of all freight load and received from connections. Stock shipments decreased 9.1 per cent east, 11.6 per cent west, 7.4 per cent total. Coal decreased 40.5 per cent east, 75.4 per cent west and 44.4 per cent total. Miscellaneous decreased 20 per cent east, 73 per cent west, and 29.9 per cent total.

COFFEE MARKETS.
NEW YORK, July 26.—Coffee futures closed, July, 6.00; September, 6.00; December, 6.00; March, 7.11; May, 7.31. Spot coffee more active and steady. Rio 74, 9400; Santos 44, 9400. Receipts at the two Brazilian ports 46,000 bags; Jundiahy receipts, 31,000.

CHICAGO STOCK TRANSACTIONS

Trading in Chicago stocks showed more activity yesterday than in several weeks, and the trend of prices was upward. The packing house issues led in activity and strength, Swift, Libby-Nellie, and Swift International secured fractional gains. In the last week short sellers have been rather badly squeezed in Swift shares. Sears-Roebuck was dull and weak. The company has sent its bankers a statement of operations for the first half of 1921. Although the report was not made public, it is understood a deficit of several million dollars is shown and also a large reduction in inventory and liabilities. Goods are being worked off at prices that preclude a profit, but this process has strengthened the financial position of the company. On small sales Quaker Oats and Diamond Match were up 3 and 3 1/4 points, respectively, while Yellow Manufacturing advanced 2 1/2. Peoples Gas, 1 1/4, and Reo Motor a point. Standard Gas and Electric preferred was off a point.
